

Downtown Sudbury

Sudbury, Ontario Canada

0 0.13 0.25 0.5 0.75 1 Kilometers

History of Sudbury

In 1888, Sudbury became one of the most important places for mining in Canada. The population rose as people became employed in the industry and by 1930, it was an incorporated as a city. Municipalities began to form in the surrounding area, and in 2001 the region was named the City of Greater Sudbury.

Beautiful Sudbury

With an area of 3227 km2, Sudbury is home to a beautiful Canadian shield landscape, and the downtown area has much to offer. Sudbury is a great place to enjoy nature, whether it's at one of several provincial parks or one of the incredible exhibits at Science North.

Downtown Sudbury

Amenities within downtown area include shopping, dining, art galleries and more. Downtown Sudbury offers many events year-round for all ages. This Northern Ontario community is home to 161,531 people, and the plethora of entertainment and rugged landscape makes the area a popular tourist destination.

Sources

<https://www.downtownsudbury.com/>; <https://www.greatersudbury.ca/do-business/community-profile/demographics/population-by-area/>; <https://www.britannica.com/place/Sudbury-Ontario>; OSM: Amenities, Highways, Landuse, Buildings, Leisure/2020; ESRI: North America Lakes/2019.

motorway	Lakes	school	marina	cemetery
motorway link	river	hospital	stadium	reservoir trunk	stream	church	residential	recreation primary	commercial	hotel	farmland	industrial secondary	industrial	garden	green space	military tertiary				Other residential

Source: Open Street Map (OSM) Highway, Waterway, Building, Leisure Area, Landuse, Amenity/2020, ESRI Living Atlas, ESRI: Lake/2019